The National Center for Tumor Diseases (NCT) in Heidelberg combines patient care and patient-oriented research under one roof. What is special about the NCT is its multidisciplinary approach: Two outstanding institutions in research and patient care, the German Cancer Research Center (DKFZ) and the Heidelberg University Hospital have joined forces in order to benefit their patients. Cancer patients at the NCT receive state of the art therapy.

Physicians and scientists from multiple disciplines work side by side to implement new targeted results as fast as possible. All of them follow the core concept of the NCT:

TOGETHER AGAINST CANCER – FOCUSING ON THE PATIENT

TRANSLATING THE LATEST RESULTS INTO CLINICAL APPLICATION FAST

The National Center for Tumor Diseases (NCT) in Heidelberg combines outstanding patient care with excellent cancer research. Our aim is to translate the latest research results into better treatment and prevention strategies as fast as possible.

STRONG WITH STRONG PARTNERS

The NCT was founded in 2004 in Heidelberg as Germany’s first “Comprehensive Cancer Center” in collaboration with the German Cancer Research Center (DKFZ) and the Heidelberg University Hospital. German Cancer Aid (Deutsche Krebshilfe) funds the NCT Heidelberg as an Oncology Center of Excellence. In 2015, Dresden became a partner location.

FUTURE PROJECT NCT 3.0

The Concept NCT 3.0 for development and expansion of the NCT Heidelberg and Dresden is subsidized by the federal and regional governments. Based on increased cooperation and funding of specific areas with scientific and clinical excellence, the NCT has established a very strong international reputation.

Every person is different and so is every tumor. This is why we treat every patient individually at the NCT Heidelberg.

The NCT Heidelberg offers:

- A central point of contact for all cancer patients
- Specialized consultations for all tumor types
- Interdisciplinary tumor conferences (tumor boards)
- Individual patient treatment and consultation
- Cancer treatment according to the latest medical knowledge and cancer research

Patients can expect to quickly receive:

- An accurate diagnosis
- A well-founded therapy recommendation
- Innovative treatment according to the latest standards
